ACN Mission & Programs

Since 1959, the American College of Nutrition® (ACN) has been on a mission to advance nutrition science to prevent and treat disease.

We are the only society focused on Translational Nutrition, bridging research and clinical practice, through our:

Journal of the American College of Nutrition (JACN) –

One of the top peer-reviewed nutrition science journals in the world, published bi-monthly for over 30 years.

Annual Conferences – For over 50 years, the elite nutrition conference for researchers and clinicians. The College is ACCME accredited to grant CME.

Fellow of the American College of Nutrition (FACN) – The premier designation for clinical nutrition researchers.

Who Should Join the College

- Clinicians (physicians and all nutrition-related practitioners)
- Researchers and Academicians
- Students
- Individuals active or interested in the nutrition field

"ACN membership is a hallmark of excellence among researchers and practitioners with an interest in nutrition science."

– Leo Galland, MD, FACN, FACP

As a testament to uncompromising science, the College does not accept funding from for-profit entities.
